

In the Abstract

Examiner has objected to the Abstract and Applicants submit a substitute Abstract with this response and believe that this substitute Abstract will overcome these objections.

Abstract of the Disclosure

A process that consists of the steps of capturing and collecting digital images of original art works, sorting those images into working sets or groupings, distributing and displaying the digital imagery of the sets or groups in a number of commercial venues and private residences via a slide show utilizing high-resolution video media including television sets and projection onto walls or screens is provided. This process will serve to 1) expose artists' works to a broad audience widely distributed throughout a broad geographic area. 2) entertain its audience, and 3) introduce that audience to dazzling new 'high definition' displays, generally defined as having XGA resolution or higher.

RECEIVED
FEB 10 2004
Technology Center 2100